#1: Students can go for SEP in either semester 1 or 2 of year 2 only (unless honours students). Note that ACC3xxx modules and Singapore Studies module (one of the University-Level Requirements) cannot be taken overseas. In order to map modules overseas, it may be necessary for students to modify this typical sequence for the semesters before the internship, and this requires planning from year 1 semester 1 or 2. To facilitate students going for SEP in either semester, ACC3601, ACC3603 and ACC3605 will be offered in both semesters of year 2 (exact number of sections will vary) — the cohort will be pre-allocated to these modules but taking into account those who have secured SEP. These three ACC3xxx modules will have exams.

#2: Year 3 semester 1 will be a regular semester, and there will no longer be the constraint of 100%-CA modules because the internship has been shifted back and reduced to 8 weeks. ACC3602, ACC3604 and ACC3614 will typically be offered only in year 3 semester 1, and will have exams during the NUS exam period. Students will be pre-allocated to these three modules.

#3: Because of the internship, Year 3 semester 2 will start either in late January or early February — referred to as the modified semester. Thus, effectively, only the five specified ACC3xxx modules can be taken in this semester, and they are typically offered only in year 3 semester 2. These will be 100%-CA modules, but will still have a final test with significant weightage. Students will be pre-allocated to these modules.
