

Sustainability in Corporate Governance & Strategic Management

Guest Editor
Prof. Dr. Lawrence Loh

Deadline
31 December 2019

SPECIAL ISSUE

Sustainability in Corporate Governance and Strategic Management

Guest Editor

Prof. Dr. Lawrence Loh
Centre for Governance, Institutions and Organisations, NUS Business School,
National University of Singapore, Singapore
bizlohyk@nus.edu.sg

Deadline for manuscript submissions:
31 December 2019

Admin process for manuscript submission:

Some important information to facilitate the submission process

- Step 1. Register an account with MDPI
- Step 2: After creation of account, login to MDPI website and update your profile.
- Step 3. Submit your journal online.

Please use the QR code or website link below for submission of journal articles to this special edition. Please scroll to the section on Manuscript Submission Information for the direct links for step 1 to 3

Special Issue Sustainability CGIO Submission

Message from the Guest Editor

Sustainability, in its current conceptualization, has evolved for several decades along the perspective of sustainable development. However, governance is, in reality, a precursor that drives sustainability. It is the foundational underpinning of sustainability that determines its manifestation and contextualization.

There is a pressing need for better scholarly expositions on the convergence of sustainability and corporate governance. This will have to go beyond existing practices and serve to guide new conceptual understandings and application modalities.

This Special Issue seeks scholarly papers that integrate sustainability with corporate governance in the setting of strategic management. This Special Issue seeks scholarly papers that integrate sustainability with corporate governance in the setting of strategic management. It welcomes multifaceted approaches to the theme, including conceptual, empirical and case studies. These can deal with a variety of settings such as for-profit companies including family businesses, nonprofit organizations including charities, and public sector agencies including governments.

Special Issue