Global REIT Investment Challenge is initiated by several prestigious universities who are actively involved in research related to real estate finance. Organized by Asian Real Estate Research Institute (ARERI), the challenge aims to promote the knowledge of commercial real estate management and investment, to study the real estate investment strategies, and to facilitate asset securitization and industrial development for REITs. The challenge also serves as a way of training the future industry leaders, providing network opportunities for young talents interested in asset management industry. This competition will be assessing on the combination use of internet investment simulation and industry research – case study. The Global REIT Investment Challenge is free of charge and is open to university students, professionals and institutional groups. Registration is currently open and will continue throughout the fall and spring semesters. The challenge consists of three rounds: qualifying, advanced and final.
